

Very Rev. Fr. Prof. Anthony Afful-Broni holds a PhD in Educational Administration and Management and a Masters in Pastoral Counselling from New York City's Fordham University. Having won the Jesuit Scholarship for Missionaries to support his Masters studies, he also won a Graduate Assistantship and worked at the Office of the Chair, Division of Administration, Policy and Urban Education (A.P.U.E.) at Fordham as doctoral student. Prior to that, he obtained a Diploma in Sacred Theology from the University of Ghana, Legon while pursuing higher studies in Sacred Theology and Philosophy from St. Peter's Major Seminary, Cape Coast, Ghana.

An ordained Catholic priest of the Archdiocese of Cape Coast for 30 years, Fr. Afful-Broni serves on many boards nationally and internationally. He is also the immediate past President of the Priests' Senate, former Chairman of the Education Committee, and Member of the College of Consultors for the Catholic Archdiocese of Cape Coast. He has taught at St. Mary's, Archbishop Porter's Girls', and Holy Child School, Cape Coast. A past University Chaplain of the University of Education, Winneba (UEW), he has, for 18 years, been resident Chaplain of Holy Spirit Catholic Church, also at UEW.

He is the Acting Vice-Chancellor of the University of Education, Winneba, having served as Pro-Vice-Chancellor for two consecutive terms, Dean of the Faculty of Educational Studies for five years, and during that period, chaired or served on a number of local, national and international Committees and Boards; mentoring a large number of faculty in professional development and research projects including participation at international conferences. The Editor-in-Chief of the International Journal of Educational Leadership, Professor Afful-Broni was also, for over a dozen years, former Consultant to the Academic Quality Assurance Unit of the University of Ghana, Legon. He continues to lead a team of Facilitators who run capacity building workshops for academic staff of Universities across the nation. His team once ran training for the West African College of Physicians and Surgeons. He has also worked for the National Accreditation Board for several years now. He facilitates Workshops on Time Management, Staff Development and Leadership in universities locally and internationally.

A member of several professional bodies including Kappa Delta Pi, Phi Delta Kappa, and the Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development (ASCD), USA for 20 years, Professor Afful-Broni led in the expansion of his faculty through the introduction of many academic programmes; he has published over 40 articles in reputable academic journals, including eight textbooks which are widely used at universities in Ghana and internationally.
